Terms of Service

Scope:
DesignPrinciples101.com is an online course at which users can learning about how design principles work and function as an important component in the creation of visual art and design compositions. These Terms of Service are in effect to both unregistered visitors and registered users.

DesignPrinciples101.com allows access to pre-recorded video lessons as well as written lessons and exercises. This site allows the viewer access to various social media platforms for viewing and comment purposes only. Any comments posted on these platforms can be used to promote DesignPrinciples101.com. DesignPrinciples101.com retains the right to respond to or remove comments.

Access to all of DesignPrinciples101.com's content is gained by registering as a paid 30- day subscriber. All subscriptions are default set to auto-renew. Users can access their account profile to change their settings.

Membership is limited to paid subscribers and designated subscribers, and is non-transferrable. DesignPrinciples101.com's support for its products, services and functions, whether stated or implied, do not extend beyond the calendar range of each 30-day subscription.

Pricing, terms of membership and terms of access are each subject to change.

To cancel a subscription, go to your Account settings and deselect Auto-Renew. If you cancel but then later decide to resubscribe, please be aware that your subscription price from before cannot be guaranteed.

Promotions are designed to encourage new subscribers and cannot be used as a credit against prior, current or future subscriptions.

License:
The license to fully access this site is limited to its paid subscribership and is non-transferrable.

Jurisdiction:
Any and all claims against DesignPrinciples101.com are limited to the jurisdiction of California and the application of California law.

Disclaimers: Though the site provides information potentially relevant to the advertisement, marketing or promotion of a user's business or income-generating interest(s), DesignPrinciples101.com does not provide advice that might directly or indirectly advance such potential income interests, nor advice towards the health benefit or well-being of any user.

Despite the results experienced by any and all users to DesignPrinciples101.com, no guarantees involving results, benefits or other take-aways are made or implied. Benefits received are relative to each user's experience, expectations, and subjective experience of outcomes.

Intellectual Property:
The content provided in the course – whether accessible in dynamic text/online form or contained in motion picture (video) form – is intended for educational purposes only. Except where noted within the course, all of the images used in this site were created by designer and site originator, Howard Schneider. The noted exceptions are identified in text or caption and limited as to use by the inherent nature of each work's individual copyright both stated and implied. Both registered and unregistered users have no right to replicate, modify, distribute, or otherwise represent content created by Howard Schneider without the expressed written permission of Howard Schneider.

November 2024